

Speaker Training

In this day and age, speaking is an inevitable part of our daily routine. It's a key component of our social interaction and is one of the most important parts of our social structure. Speech usually takes place between two individuals or in small groups as well as instances where one person must confront a large group of people to convey a specific or important message to as many people as possible in the quickest and hopefully most easily digestible way possible.

The act of speaking is a challenge that everyone from the neighbor next door to the famous statesmen from history has had to face up to. No matter the size of the crowd – one or a thousand – being able to find the right words to convey your idea to another person or persons while leaving little to ambiguity is a tricky challenge.

Course Overview

You will spend the first part of the course getting to know participants and discussing what will take place during the workshop. Students will also have an opportunity to identify their personal learning objectives.

This workshop will help you teach participants how to:

- Build their own self-esteem
- Create rapport between audience and speaker
- Use learner's voice effectively
- Promote efficiency, retention, and cohesiveness in speech

Create Confidence In Learners

In this session, participants are taught how to instill their confidence by allowing them to build their own self-esteem by teaching them to handle themselves in front of others by drawing from their own merits and their work, as well as overcome the challenge of facing one or a thousand people using techniques and methods which have proven effective for other speakers in the past.

Help learners create a connection to their audience

This session aims to aid participants in personalizing their speech using personal attributes of themselves to create a more personal, humanized way of speaking that will be more effective, means of communicating their thoughts and emotions to others.

Make effective use of the learner's voice

Next, participants will know how learner's voice becomes a significant tool to their arsenal, and one such tool that this course will train learners in proper and effective usage in.

Promote efficiency, retention, and cohesiveness in speech

Lastly, participants will learn the techniques and methods to allow speakers to stay on topic, make their points in the most efficient ways possible, allow speakers to maintain their composure and attention in settings or environments that would easily draw attention away from or distract them from their speaking activity, or at the very least allow them to substitute stammering phrases with ones that allow them to return to the topic at hand more efficiently.

Workshop Wrap-Up

At the end of the course, students will have an opportunity to ask questions and fill out an action plan.
